Experience Coaching

Coach of Amateurs Riders Dressage

Over twenty years' experience working with adult/amateurs in Novice, Level 1, Level 2, Level 3, Junior FEI and Prix St. George. Emphasis on the rider's position, balance and use of the aids. Included German "scale of training" of the horse, evidence of lateral movements and improved quality of the gaits y each cadence.

I was proud to coach an adult/amateur rider to be a member of the Nation Team at the Bolivarian Games in Peru with a Bronze medal result.

Jumping: Professionals/ Amateurs / Juniors / Children

Taught riders to ride gymnastics; to balance the rider over the jumps, correct management of timing between jumping (forward seat) position and full seat position. Worked with horses to improve general jumping technique and also to address a better use of the front end and/or the back end. Emphasis on straightness and teaching the horses to adjust the last stride.

The most important part of the FEI method that I use, is the practice over "ground poles" jumping course simulation, counting strides in straight and bending lines with the main purpose to improve "the eye" and the ideal take off spot or distance for jumping

Mental fitness of the riders

Regardless of the level of competition, whether local, national or international, the mental fitness of the rider has become a main component of performance, therefore, the riders need to be strictly focused on the job in hand, conscious of the specs of the class he/she is riding and jog into the ring with the highest level of confidence possible.

By obtaining relevant and constant feedback from the riders, I can use the "four C's technique" that will allow me to make a comprehensive diagnosis is the riders fears, apprehensions, levels of anxiety , thoughts regarding all aspects of the competition, desire to win, effects of a jump off, etc. and address these issues in order to solve them and have a happier and confident rider due to being able to control its deficiencies and enhance the strengths.

I am a teacher

Coaches are evaluated not only by the results of the riders, but also by the amount of true learning of equestrian theory. I am a teacher and my riders learn a great deal, mainly because the method is similar to a workshop were every task is "hand on" on a horse.

I do my best to make every lesson interesting through involving the rider in his/hers own learning.

I promote riders' independence, that is to say, that every rider should be able to prepare his own lesson when the Coach is absent. These lessons have authentic purpose and relevance because the learning process that preceded is deep and comprehensive.

If I am directing the sports career of a professional rider or coaching an amateur rider with recreational purposesmy objective is to Coach and Teach to WIN
